"I have learned to not only think of my future decisions but also my decisions now. I can help set up myself for what I want to do after high school."

-Highland Park High School Student

Program Results

- 97% of students agreed that their Cloud Coach mentor treated them like they were important and valued.
- 85% of students agreed that the Cloud Coach program helped them understand that their actions today will impact their future.
- 87% of students agreed that as a result of the Cloud Coach program, they are thinking more about their plans after high school (such as their education or career).

“My favorite part of the experience was getting to know my student. I think I saw growth in her attitude towards herself and her future in high school and that felt great.”

-Deloitte Volunteer Mentor

About Cloud Coach

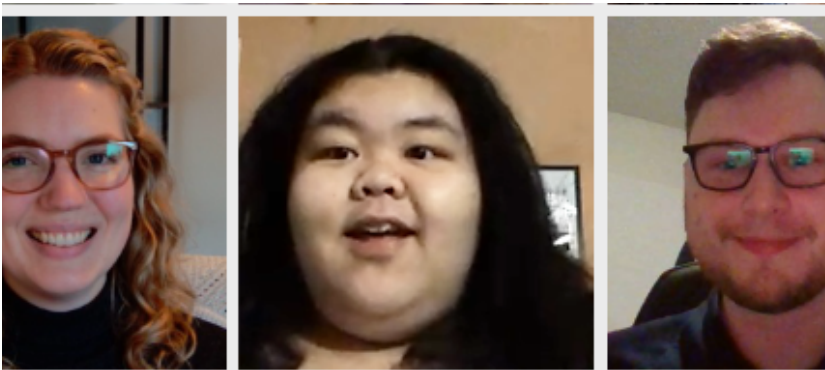

Cloud Coach is an eight-week one-on-one online mentoring program that serves students in the entire ninth grade class of Minneapolis and St. Paul public schools in partnership with mentors from local companies. Aimed at helping students identify their aspirations and set goals, Cloud Coach takes a directed approach at strengthening student motivation.

Due to the pandemic, most of the program continued to be a virtual experience.

Program Highlights

- Southwest High School became the newest Cloud Coach school and Thrivent, Boston Scientific, and Deloitte joined as school co-sponsors.
- 3M provided a record 580 volunteers, mentoring students at St. Paul Central High School.
- General Mills hosted a company tour for the students of North High School.

"I've learned that failure and mistakes are okay. It's just a way to keep moving forward no matter how difficult it gets because it's a lesson to be learned."

-Central High School Student
