"The SMG gives a real-time opportunity for students to learn a skill. It enhances and promotes research, analysis, and financial literacy."

-John Morris, General Colin L. Powell
Leadership Academy Educator

Program Results

- 94% of teachers said students developed college and career readiness skills, such as teamwork, decision-making and research
- 99% of teachers said students improved their financial literacy skills
- 99% of teachers said students have an increased awareness of how real-world events and trends affect the stock market and economy

"The SMG is the first exposure to economics and business that our students get in their education. It incorporates math, global citizenship, and current events. We love this educational, relevant experience."

- Elizabeth Johnson, Chaska Middle School West Educator

About The Stock Market Game

Students in grades 4-12 work in teams to invest a virtual $100,000. They gain business, math, economics, financial literacy, and critical thinking skills as they research and collaborate to make smart investment decisions.

Program Highlights

- The SMG experienced a 25% increase in student participation compared to the year before.
- The SMG established a relationship with a new key partner, Charles Schwab and Charles Schwab Foundation, which allowed us to offer SMG at no cost for schools.
- The SMG staff provided more than 30 program training and on-boarding sessions to teachers and students to help increase engagement in the program.
